Foreword

Stroll through the stately campus of Washington and Lee on a Wednesday or Saturday afternoon or on a Sunday, and the chances are that you will see ahead of you, approaching on the walk, two or three or more youths in the gray-clad uniform of the "West Point of the South." Watch closely . . . as the VMI cadets pass . . . the chapel that houses the tomb of Robert E. Lee. The talk and laughter cease, the boyish forms straighten with soldierly erectness, and one and all salute with military precision at the exact moment they pass . . . the tomb.

The laughter and careless chatter break out again; the cadets pass on. But there is something about that spectacle that has stirred the blood of the beholder and will not allow him to forget . . . Day or night it is always the same . . . no VMI cadet passes . . . save at respectful salute.

DED

THE Class of 1955 is honored to be able to dedicate the 1955 BOMB to two outstanding members of the Institute. It is not often that an opportunity is presented for a class to honor two such worthy men, and we of the Class of 1955 are gratified to dedicate the 1955 BOMB to Col. William Couper and Col. Raymond Dixon.

Every member of the Corps or, for that matter, anyone who has come into contact with Col. Dixon is impressed by his kindness and sincere interest in them, their studies and their problems. As head of the English Department, he has guided the Liberal Arts into a leading position at V. M. I. His affection for the Corps and his deep interest in improving V. M. I. have made Col. Dixon a name that is a fitting memorial to his thirty-six years of service. To fill the gap left by his retirement will be the job of time, but his work will always be a foundation on which we can feel secure.

In his forty years of association with V. M. I., Col. Couper has rendered valuable services that have increased the prestige of the Institute. In spite of his excellence as Business Administrator, it is as Historiographer that Col. Couper is famous. His complete records on cadets and his One Hundred Years at V. M. I. are monuments to his work and love for the Institute and the Corps. V. M. I. is very fortunate to have such a man, and his retirement marks a deep loss to the Institute.

The Institute

IN our four years here, the Institute has come to mean more to us than barracks or a set of regulations. We now realize that it is indeed the "spirit" that has made VMI great and that this spirit is symbolized by the Institute.

MILITARY SCIENCE

LT. COL. HENRY C. KERLIN

Professor of Military Science

From the fundamentals of drill and basic courses during the first year, a cadet rapidly advances in training that includes specialization in his own particular branch, which can be Infantry, Artillery, or Armor. The military science course includes a six-week period of practical work in summer camp at the end of a cadet's second class year. The instruction well prepares a cadet for his stretch in the U. S. Army.

Professor of Air Science

Offering specialization in Logistics, Installations, or Flight, the Air Science course proceeds from basic instruction in drill and fundamental courses into advanced training in special fields. The cadets are given an opportunity to actually fly from nearby fields and take trips to the air centers in Virginia. A graduate is well qualified to make a career in the Air Force.

L. to R.: Capt. Gupton, Col. Carroll, Maj. Cormack, Capt. Reeves

The Biology, or as it is popularly called the Pre-Med course, offers one of the most rounded and organized courses at VMI. The Pre-Meds are in contact with every department from Chemistry to English. Col. Carroll directs his boys with so much skill that they can get into any med school in the country without any trouble. Their fine records at graduate schools in the past prove that this department is one of the most able at VMI.

CHEMISTRY

Boasting a distinguished and educated faculty, the Chemistry Department is first the bete noire of Rats in the Rat Chemistry course. Then the Pre-Meds and Chemists meet it again their third class year. After a wicked thrust to the Pre-Meds with Organic in the first class year, as well as Physical Chemistry for the Chemistry majors, the Chemistry Department can be satisfied that it has done its best to prepare cadets for med school or business.

MAURY BROOKE HALL

CIVIL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

Guiding this year's record class of Civils would be a job in any man's way of thinking. However, as usual, "Buzz" and his staff were able to do this in fine style. As Civils, we appreciate the fine job they did for us. Especially outstanding were the efforts of Lt. Colonel J. M. Morgan; future classes have something to look forward to. Any article about the Civil Engineering Department eventually gets back to Colonel Marr because in many ways he and the Department are synonymous. We will remember the Colonel most vividly as he groomed us for the many job interviews he had arranged. It is our sincere hope that our life will be as productive as that of Colonel R. A. Marr, Jr.

VIRGINIA MOURNING HER DEAD

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

Vaunting one of the hardest courses at VMI, the EE Department is rapidly expanding its course. Taking its crack at the Civils in Thermo, the EE Dept. also makes its own men sweat with AC circuits, etc. The graduate in EE does not lack opportunities in the technical world of today, as is evidenced by the many fine jobs the EE's have landed.

ENGLISH

Although handicapped by the loss of the Academic Building, the English Department has continued its energetic expansion. Adding new instructors and making a complete overhaul of the course, the English Department is one of the more progressive in the South. Col. Dixon's retirement after thirty-six years of service will be a loss, but with Col. Dillard's able direction the Department will continue to expand.

The basic course in English taken during the Rat year is all many cadets get to know of the English Department. However the English majors rapidly begin to concentrate their studies during the third class year, and continue in basic literature and cultural courses for the remainder of their cadetship.

The new Liberal Arts Placement Service proved that the English majors could successfully compete for jobs. A salute to VMI's fastest growing department.

PRESTON LIBRARY

*Faculty, Seated: Lt. Col. Townes, Col. Fuller, Maj. Goolrick
Standing: Maj. Wilson, Maj. Welsh, Maj. Gilliam, Capt. Barrett, Capt. Drumm, Capt. Hunter*

HISTORY AND ECONOMICS

Headed by Col. Fuller, the History Department joins the English Department in trying to give cadets a well rounded education. From the fourth class year until the third class year, all cadets come into contact with a course under the History Department. The History majors begin to specialize in their second class year, and their career culminates with a course in contemporary events in the first class.

LANGUAGE

At VMI the Foreign Language Departments offer a basic course in French, German, and Spanish. Each course offers the student the fundamentals without making language a major course.

Taken by arts and science students alike, the languages are available in four year or two year courses. A graduate can feel confident in any field with the basic knowledge acquired from the Snapper, Foofu, or Pancho.

COL. T. A. E. MOSELEY

NEW ADDITION TO SCOTT-SHIPH HALL

*Faculty. Seated: Col. Purdie, Col. Byrne, Lt. Col. Ax
Standing: Capt. Saunders, Capt. Clark, Mr. Oehring, Capt. Lambert, Capt. Martin*

MATH DEPARTMENT

With the retirement of Col. Mayo last year a vital part of V. M. I. tradition was lost. The new corps will miss B. D.'s acquaintance with the engineer of the "Virginia Creeper," his chalk and wire game, and above all his classic method of closing the transom. But still the math department gets a chance at all cadets. Even the L. A. Rats have to take a year of algebra and trig. All of the engineers struggle through algebra, trig and three semesters of calculus. After that the physicists and electricals move on to differential equations and advanced calculus.

This year, under the direction of Col. Byrne, the math department gave two new courses. Capt. Saunders taught a course in logic from a mathematical viewpoint to a few biology and L. A. Rats, and Col. Byrne and Mr. Oehring gave an optional course in advanced operational calculus to the first class physicists and E. E.'s. It is evident that the math department is continuing its progressive ways.

WASHINGTON'S STATUE

*Seated: Col. Weaver, Col. Heflin, Col. Foster
Standing: Lt. Col. Newman, Capt. Ragland, Capt. Vannoy, Lt. Mayo*

PHYSICS

With the erection of Mallory Hall, the Physics Department is the best housed and equipped department at VMI. Teaching courses in Physics to a large number of cadets, this department also manages to have an excellent course for the Physics majors. From GE to Du Pont, companies rush to grab the new graduates in Physics. Col. Heflin has done an excellent job in directing this department to its present high level.

Department of Philosophy and Psychology

Working single handedly, Col. Bates teaches one of the heaviest loads of any instructor and still manages to do a good job. His courses are designed to give cadets a basic understanding of general psychology and also to help the Liberal Arts in teaching a course in the History of Philosophy.

MR. WILLIAM M. SIMPSON

History of Art

Mr. Simpson came to VMI three years ago and in a short time has managed to have one of the most interesting and popular courses at the Institute. His Art class is a conglomeration of LA's, Pre-Meds, Civils, etc. He directs the activities in the studio (popularly called the Hideaway) of those cadets who are artistically inclined. Mr. Simpson is a most popular instructor at the Institute and a valuable contributor to the cadets' life here.

LT. COL. JOHN E. TOWNES

As advisor to the BOMB for many years, Col. Townes has, as usual, done his sterling job for us this year. Without his help and timely advice we could not produce our book. We of the 1955 BOMB sincerely tender our gratitude to Col. Townes.

LT. COL. HERBERT A. JACOB

As Secretary to the Alumni Foundation, Col. Jacob is one of the busiest men on the VMI post. Although little known by cadets, Col. Jacob is constantly working to improve the Institute.

The Corps

THE CORPS has perhaps, by its very closeness with the constant military system, affected us more than any part of our life here. Our disappointments and successes here have taught us much that will be valuable to us in our lives — whether they be citizen or soldier.

The Classes

WITHIN the four walls of barracks, the class system is the foundation of cadet self-government. Although not always agreeing, men of all classes stick together when there is a job to be done. It is by a strong class system that the spirit of VMI is made stronger.

FIRST CLASS HISTORY

NEVER will we forget that dreary day, September 5, 1951, when, over four hundred strong, we entered the Institute as "rats." We were the largest class ever to matriculate, and to us this seemed to spur the Third Class to strike through the Rat Line as though to cut our numbers. "Pull that chin in; rack those shoulders down and back. Get into it, Rat!!"—yes, those days are long gone, but they will live forever in our memory. For although they seemed almost unbearable at times, we now realize that we owe some of our richest experiences to the days as rats. One of the most vivid, as well as most poignant of these is that never-to-be-forgotten night in December when we engineered what has come to be called "The Big Step-off." Neither can we forget our punishment, for the "Midnight March" is burned on most of our memories—and feet. We were young then, but on that night we were prematurely wielded into a class. However, the Rat Line went on; Christmas vacation came and passed; exams came, and unfortunately, not always passed; Easter vacation flew by; and then came that long awaited day when we got out of the Rat Line. It was almost unbelievable, we had survived! After that school was over before we realized it, and we raced for home with a long-drawn sigh of relief.

We came back as Third Classmen ready and eager to demonstrate our class's strength in handling the Rat Line, but here we found that the troubles of responsibility are many and varied. However, we shouldered the load and settled down to awaiting our next milestone as cadets—Ring Figure. But we didn't grow dull from all work and no play, for some memorable parties were had that year, and we found we were already beginning to be leaders in some phases of barracks life. This year we left for home feeling that from then on it was downhill, for the halfway mark was passed.

It would be useless as well as almost impossible to enumerate all the many incidents of our Second Class year. All that is needed is a little memory stimulation, and the mind of any Brother Rat is at once pregnant with many fond reminiscences. For, outside of graduation, the epitome of our cadetship was reached in November—Ring Figure!

Who will ever forget the last minute rush to get ready—then gliding through the softly lit gym—a pause—fear of dropping the ring—then a longer pause. After that, the wild, wonderful party at the Pine Room, and the awful feeling everyone had the next day.

From then on we began to watch more closely the life in barracks and the activities of the Corps, for we were training ourselves to be the leaders of bar-acks already, and in the late spring we even began to take on a little of this responsibility. Finals came, were better than ever, and then we were rushing away again—but not home this time, for we scattered over most of the country to various service camps and bases to spend part of our vacation putting into practice what we had been learning in our military science courses.

We made a good record in our respective summer camps, and had a good time doing it, too. The service, we found, was much easier than VMI, and many a road was burned between the camps and near-by towns.

September arrived again though, and for the first time during our internment at VMI, we actually welcomed the opening of school. This was our big year, we had finally made it to the last lap. Now it would be us who would don a sour look when underclassmen spoke of "the Firsts" as we surrounded ourselves with the dignity and mystery of the First Class cape. Our Brother Rats were now the "top brass," and we began to realize how heavy the load of responsibility was as we took our positions of leadership in the Corps.

We also found ourselves with more freedom in the form of week ends and F. C. P., and "discovered" Hollins, Sweet Briar, Mary Baldwin, and all the other girls' schools near-by. Many a heart will be broken when the Class of '55 graduates!

Nevertheless, our numerous duties and activities didn't deter us from our work—too much, that is! So almost before we realized it, our First Class year was drawing to a close, and we began to look forward to June 7th and graduation.

Graduation—our final goal at VMI, but only the beginning of our life as VMI Alumni. The proving grounds of graduate schools, medical schools, business, and the service lay ahead, the standards already set by the VMI men before us, and we stepped forth confident that we could certainly maintain and perhaps even surpass this reputation. For, "You may be whatever you resolve to be."

JAMES McCALLUM

Jim's winning smile and genuine friendliness gained for him a great deal of popularity among his fellow cadets. His love of the game and rugged line play secured for him a starting position on the football squad. Jim's rapid improvement at a new position won him the admiration and praise of his coaches and teammates. His honesty and deep religious feelings always served as a guiding example to those that were close to him. His life, though suddenly brought to a close, left a memory in the hearts of his fellow men that will never be forgotten. A gentleman, an athlete, but most of all a true friend.

In Memoriam

SCOTT SHIPP HUGER

Scotty was so well known at VMI that he needs no other memorial. His genuine friendship and friendly smile made him lasting friends in all the classes that he had known. Never one to worry, Scotty lived a carefree but serious life as a Cadet. It was tragic that Scotty had such an untimely end, but he will always be remembered by those of us who knew the lively, good-humored person that he was.

Four years ago a seventeen year old entered V. M. I. with an ambition to follow in his father's footsteps in the Regular Army. The fall of 1951 is his story now and Stu is about to realize his ambition. As many a Brother Rat has found out, Stu was, at first, difficult to cultivate but once known has been a proven friend and a good companion. Stu has achieved success at V. M. I. as a non-com and officer and everything points that he will do equally as well in the Army. We have called you "General" for four years in jest, Stu, in twenty years we hope to do it in truth.

Go! Go! Go! These enthusiastic words form the best description of a Baltimore bundle of energy inherited from '54. When not presiding at some club meeting, one could usually find Mr. "Hedge-Hopping" preparing his weekly column on aviation; handling the administrative details of Baker Co. or raking in the shekles for Red Turner. When this boy takes over AT&T stock should soar like those jets he'll fly for Uncle Sam.

Tradition has it that in Texas everything is bigger and better and after listening to Dave expound on the virtues of his native state for a few minutes even the most skeptical cannot help but believe that there must be some foundation of fact to his elaborate praises.

Dave's love for his home state has been equalled only by his enthusiasm for Buzz Marr's Engineering course. As the indomitable foe of all Liberal Artists, Dave has availed himself of every opportunity to denounce that phlegmatic group.

Future plans for the "visiting Texan" include a return to the prairies and marriage to Babs, the sweetest little girl in Texas, and a career in Engineering. There can be little doubt that with Dave on the job there are "bigger and better" highways in store for the Lone Star State.

Far from confining his activities solely to track, though, he has excelled as a barracks entrepreneur and sack artist par excellence. After being a high ranking corporal and sergeant he turned his efforts to the books and became one of "Baz's" top civils. Entering V. M. I. in that fateful fall of '51, Q. T. was immediately positive that he did not like the unfriendly military atmosphere but tried to make the best of it.

Never one to turn down a good party or any other kind of party for that matter, his most eventful year was probably his third. Outsmarted by the opposite sex, he joined the ranks of many who gave miniatures out foolishly, only to find he had the wrong girl all the time.

He has had combat with not only "Doc" but also the famous chemists, Les and Butch, and claims to be a member of the Farmer's Society.

Whether it be in the field of Medicine or the Air Force, we are sure that Tommy will go far up the hill of success.

Lexington lasses sighed while Tazewell, Virginia's cuties cried; "Lover" Baugh had invaded V. M. I. Dick maintains that lovers are not only born, but they are also made. Sports writers have asked, "who developed Sammy Baugh"; we are equally perplexed over the identity of Dick's coach. Intricate mathematical problems in E. E. have made an engineer of him but that pleasant smile sprinkled with innocence has remained the same. Our friendship has been won by his easy going and quiet reserved manner. The Air Force will be occupying our boy's next few years, after that he will be trading silvertans for civies.

Not only did he rise from the ranks to be one of the best cadet officers, but also achieved the same honors in his academics. It doesn't take long for this monogram outfielder to win the friendship of those who meet him. Bill came to us from ole T. J., fully versed and precisioned in the military, and running true to course, left it there. Prominent among Les' "Bunsen Boys", his conscientious academic labors have rewarded him with a promising career in the Du Pont family. Bill's capturing smile and boisterous laugh will long be remembered from the Crow's Nest to Ft. Ed came to Virginia after prepping in Pennsylvania, at the same time changing his residence from New York to Florida, which substantiates the proverbial lure of the Southland. A true cosmopolite, the life of any party, the last of the big spenders, and the only man in barracks who knew what Simpson carried in his suitcase, Ed has demonstrated an unusual ability to absorb that which is worth while and tolerate that which isn't. Ed's striving for perfection paid enduring dividends in his choice of a bride, and we hope the honeymoon will last forever.

As one of the most active and busiest of our brother rats, Norm seems to have his finger in every pie. As president of the Honor Court, honor student, and friend to all, Norm manages to see almost everyone in barracks for some reason or other. Never too busy to hear the problems of any cadet, he has won the admiration and respect of all his brother rats. As a stalwart platoon lieutenant of the "F" Company rabble, he has established himself as a leader. Upon graduation into the cruel world, Norm's ability will carry him far, so that he will be a credit to the dear old Institute.

It was a sad day when Mr. Bobby, boy mayor, left Kinsale with an assortment of crabbing nets and oyster tongs and headed for V. M. ONE. At first Curly was quite the military man, but soon exchanged his Kiwi and brownie points for fog glasses and slipsticks in favor of the E. E. Department. A favorite son of both of the Brown Boys, Mike and Johnny and never a stickler for the system, Bobby has always managed to keep his hero "Shane" constantly on the ball. His sincerity, integrity, and true friendship, along with his natural humor will help Bobby overcome the toughest hurdles in later life.

Anytime you are in doubt of Dr. Bill's (no relation to Gen. Bill) address, just ask any YOUNG girl in Newport News. Yes, Steel Woolie is a real woman killer with the younger generation. Besides Bill's accomplishments with his many loves, he has found time to become Joe Athlete on the intramural field, one of Doc's favorite sons, and "D" Company's Third Platoon Leader. They say he is the only man to have discovered why those extra pleats exist in Captain Phaup's pants.

Bill, a true Mississippi Rebel, came to V. M. I. with a hearty laugh, a broad grin, and a happy pleasantness, all of which four trying years have failed to alter. Mr. Perseverance battled his way to the top ranks of "Buzz's Boys" while allowing himself plenty of sack time along the way. This old boy had a wonderful sense of humor and rarely missed an opportunity to spread cheer throughout the ranks. Although his love life had some hard knocks, he maintained his standing as a "ladies man". Bill has a fine start in the industrial world and will have no difficulty in reaching his high goals.

Sambo is one of the few Texans who is not continuously bragging about that forlorn stretch of desert he calls home. While at the Institute he has been an outstanding student, and one of the mainstays of the cadet band. He has done much to promote the popularity of the Commanders, and the cadet dance band, helping to raise it to be one of the most sought after college bands in the state.

Sam will be best remembered for his fickle love life. His returns from numerous weekends were invariably accompanied by glowing accounts of fair damsels from various girls' schools in the vicinity who had him snowed for a week or so.

It is difficult for a "Yankee" to get used to the land of Jackson and Lee, but Chuck grinned and bore it when he ventured to V. M. I. from the ice and snow of the North. "Pete" settled down at the Institute after many years as an "Army Brat" and although a "Yankee", has almost been accepted as an honorary "Johnny Reb". Finally coming into his own, "Perone" joined the "Friday Night Club" and can be counted on to lend a hand, whether it be explaining Ohm's Law or helping a staggering brother rat back into barracks. After four years in the Bullpen, the academic fog has been lifted and "Pete" can head back to the Vineyard to pursue the same things he has been pursuing at V. M. I.

Smiling he came; delirious he left. Yes, Ted was one of those men who just loved it here. A private through and through, he cared little for the glory of the parade ground, yet like all of us he stuck it out and worked hard—with good results. These were the results that earned him such nicknames as the "Great White Father" of the slide rule and the "Mathematical Snowball." But above all, he has been a great friend, and, with luck, we may meet again.

He has been outstanding in every organization that he has been in at the Institute and if he does half as well in life as he has done here, his future will be assured.

This can be verified by the many afternoons spent in the sack or sunbathing on L. A. Beach. With all the big weekends and many blonde Amazons Jim became the foremost authority on women. He was the founder of the profound Ramsey Theory that, "an occupied mind and jets will replace the opposite sex." With his magnetic personality, imagination, and ability, he has gotten through the L. Even with all his varied personal activities he became a leader in the military and we are sure the Air Force will regard him as one of their most enthusiastic jet jockeys.

Entering V. M. I. with a definite goal in mind, Tootie exerted himself to live up to the name his dad had a generation before. Having been provided with such an excellent background, V. M. I. training came easily to Tootie. He has excelled in every phase of barracks and social life to be found at V. M. I. Not to be outdone in either the academic or sporting field, Tootie chose the double E course and played varsity baseball. Tootie has captured lasting friendship with all of his schoolmates through his pleasant personality and pleasing manner. These are the qualities that will help him attain success in the years to come.

Jack was one of the few who migrated from the western part of this country to join us in 1951. With stamina and determination, he has worked his way to enviable heights both militarily and academically. He is well known among the Corps as "Boscoe", the short, immaculate zebra who can frequently be found attending the trunk rooms. With his pleasant smile and sparkling personality, his close observance of rules and regulations, and his untiring efforts toward self improvement, we know that he will excel in whatever field of work he may choose to follow.

Jim possesses a deep, sincere, friendly personality, and applies himself diligently to any task with which he is challenged; he is one of the few who are seeking to improve their education through the assimilation of more knowledge and information. This old with the receding hairline is also quite popular at such familiar places as Hollins and as yet no young lady has been able to get a real hold on this hard nut. "Monty" came to the Institute in 1950. He liked it so much he decided to make a five-year career of his internment. Between "pounding the drums", chasing golf balls, and working on "Buzz" Marr's highway crew, he concentrates on a little cutie named "Ginny".

I'm sure "Monty" with his determination, ambition, and "Ginny" will succeed in whatever he attempts.

Quiet and unassuming, Bill has filled his four years here at V. M. I. with a variety of activities. Interested primarily in helping the Corps establish a stronger religious foundation, he has always been ready to extend his friendship to all, asking little in return. In academic work as well as extra-curricular, he has shown his ability of being able to follow a job though until its completion, which in itself is an accomplishment to be envied. And so as another phase of our education comes to a close, it seems quite possible that in your chosen career, Bill, your friendship will be as much sought after by new associates as it has been by so many in the past few years.

Ned, Farmville born and Farmville bred, came to the Institute with his sights set on a diploma in Civil Engineering. Ned has shouldered this task and completed it with flying colors. Through the many tribulations of academics, rat line, and the military, he has always been there with his congenial personality that has successfully brought him through 24 years. In our estimation this will bring him great dividends in any undertaking he attempts. Black-eyed peas, cross salad, ham, spoon bread followed by a good open fire, and Jackie is Ned's idea of the way to live. We believe he will always be a man that we are proud to call our Brother Rat.

Though Fred has never been too interested in the military system he has contributed much to V. M. I. through his performance in Cross Country, Indoor Track and Baseball. To those who do not know him too well Fred may seem like the quiet reserved type; but to the contrary he has a great sense of humor and can keep you amused for hours. Perhaps his Public Speaking section will best remember him for his Africa speech. Congratulations to Fred; after planning to leave at the end of every semester he finally made it.

"S. P." (spit and polish), will be much remembered for his competitive spirit, displayed both on the drill field and in the classroom. In spite of an up and down military history, Stan has maintained a high standard of perfection, a virtue which will undoubtedly carry him to a successful future in the Air Force and in civilian life. Stan's energies found diversification in such fields as the opposite sex, dancing, and automobiles. With his warm smile and pleasant manner we know that Stan will find only more friends and continued success after graduation.

"Woody" has been a cadet here at V. M. I. for five years, not because he lacks intelligence, but because he has a phobia for examinations. In these five years he has displayed a hidden quality to get along with his fellow cadets and all those he comes in contact with. Combined with the neatness and sincerity of his work, he should do well in his chosen profession, accountancy. He has a love for fun, an eagerness to tinker with and create unusual mechanisms, and an interest in flying. He'll go far.

SECOND CLASS HISTORY

During the past three years so many events have slipped past that we sometimes find it difficult to collect them all as memories. There are, of course, the unpleasant recollections as well as the pleasant, but all of them are stamped for us with that certain indefinable something that is VML.

Perhaps more vivid than the others are our recollections of the Rat Year. We remember surreptitiously greeting a Brother Rat in the Rat Line, straining over innumerable radiators, our first hops, the coatees, the ducks, and more than anything else the joy of becoming an Old Cadet, an integral part of that system that we had grown to love over and above the minor tribulations of a difficult Rat Year. The thing, however, for which we are most grateful is that unity of class that grew from a closeness born of pure fear and unfamiliarity to a strong tie of mutual understanding and friendship that will last as long as there are members of the class to recall days past.

The Third Class Year was a change that bound our class even more closely than before. The first few weeks were pure delight; however, the elation that accompanied responsibility soon palled and we found that there was more to enforcing the Rat Line than pleasure. We found that it could be tiring, even monotonous, but we continued in our efforts with a singleness of purpose because, aside from the pure responsibility of our position, we knew that only by creating a strong Rat Line could we mould a strong class. The year ended on a note of success and at Finals we saw, in addition to numerous parties, picnics, some of our Brother Rats assuming truly responsible positions in the Corps of Cadets.

This, our Second Class Year, has been a year of preparation. Through the haze of a glorious Ring Figure we perceived the goal which we have all been seeking for so long. Along with our class rings and the famous $200 kiss we received the knowledge that in a short time we would have to be ready to assume the role of "the Lords of Barracks," to accept positions of responsibility, and to devote ourselves to the Institute as well as to ourselves. It is toward this end that we have channeled much of our energy during the past nine months, and it is this end which we hope to achieve during the coming year.

The year is over; Summer Camp is impending. The Class of 1956 has finished three long years fraught with frustration yet abounding in pleasure. We have covered a lot of ground since we entered the arch without even a basic knowledge of the purposes of the school. We are ready, because VMI has made us ready, to become next year's First Class.

"THE '56's HAVE A PARTY"

THIRD CLASS HISTORY

On September 9, 1953, a group of bewildered and perplexed young men stood at the threshold of a new and strange adventure, ready to embark on a four year voyage that would carry them from the depths of depression to the heights of ecstasy—we the Rats had arrived. Our part was simple and our task was well defined; for the next nine months we were to be the Rats at VMI. As Rats we stepped forward with chins in and shoulders down and back to face whatever hardships and discouragements the future might have in store for us.

The days were long and the weeks dragged by with unbelievable slowness. The discipline of the Rat Line was broken by the football games, cheer rallies, and torchlight parades, to which we all looked forward with great anticipation. At these events we began to feel that we were really a part of the corps and to realize the true meaning of the "Spirit of VMI."

We saw our Keydets have a very successful football season and consequently gain the state championship. We were let out of the Rat Line and temporarily released from its duties and restrictions after victories over Catawba, Virginia, and VPI.

The third class gave us our first resurrection just after Ring Figure; and then, only a few weeks later, Christmas furlough was at hand.

With sad hearts we returned to school after Christmas, ready to face the end of the first semester and mid-term exams. The corps trip to Richmond for the Governor's Inaugural Parade interrupted the brief period between Christmas and exams.

Mid term exams and Mid-Winter dances came and went, and before we knew it, Easter furlough was here.

Shortly after returning from Easter furlough we all gathered in Jackson Memorial Hall to elect our class officers, who would lead us through the next three years at VMI. We elected Russell Davis, class president; John Turley, vice president and Walter O'Donohue, historian.

"Bloody Sunday" came and passed, and suddenly we found ourselves in the last company room, struggling to break through the wall of upperclassmen who stood between us and the end of the Rat Line. It was on this eve of May 17, 1954, that VMI officially witnessed the advent of the Class of 1957.

At the class picnic we had our first opportunity to act together as a class and to enjoy the advantages of being "Old Cadets."

Finally, that long awaited last day of Finals arrived; and after the commencement exercises had been completed and the appointments of the various officers of the corps had been announced, each of us set out in his separate direction for summer furlough. There was a feeling of pride and satisfaction deep within each of us as we fleetingly glanced back at the gray walls of the Institute; such a satisfaction as comes only to those who have successfully weathered the storm of that first year at VMI. Yet even while the inner emotion was still aglow, there were thoughts of the coming year and the part that the Class of 1957 would play in the yet unwritten future.

Upon returning to school the next September, we found new responsibilities and obligations which presented a personal challenge to each of us. We found that the strict and impersonal enforcement of the Rat Line was our most pressing problem. Much time and thought was contributed to the improvement of the Rat Line and the Rat system. Our first resurrection took place in the latter part of October.

This year, as before, we witnessed the passing of the football season and all of the cheer rallies and torch light parades that accompany it.

We began at an early date to make our plans for Ring Figure, which was yet over one year away. Francis Sheild was chosen to head the committee to design our class ring, and Dave Dunn was chosen as our Ring Figure chairman.

We had a very successful party just after Thanksgiving, and then we anxiously looked forward to Christmas furlough.

It was not long before the joyous yuletide season was just a memory, and we were back at VMI, ready to begin mid-term exams. As soon as the examination period was over, we once more focused our full attention on the Rat Line and the many other problems which were at hand. We realized that soon it would be time to select our representatives to the honor court, who would represent our class and from whom would come a future president of the honor court. On February 15, 1955 we selected Jim Piggott, Harry Warner, and Dick Hunt to serve as members of the honor court from our class.

The remainder of the winter passed quickly and spring found us still energetically enforcing the Rat Line and striving to fulfill our obligations to VMI and to those who had gone before us.

When final exams had been completed and the graduation had drawn to a close, we once more looked forward to the future and to the coming year when we would be second classmen.

FOURTH CLASS HISTORY

After signing on the dotted line in Jackson Arch, we gathered our bags and were led into barracks and into a new way of life, which would present to us many trials and tribulations in the days to follow. Our initial was spent in the drawing of supplies, drilling under the watchful eyes of the cadre, standing in endless lines, and listening to numerous indoctrination speeches of which we were slowly becoming a part. The novelty of the Rat Line soon wore off and with the coming of the "old cadets" we then learned that last word in discipline was "Sir." In addition to this military life class began and we were then affronted with the problem of budgeting our time in order to allow time for both. The days dragged and finally the first grading period ended. Our academic deficiencies and excess demerits showed us there was a lot of room for improvement.

The monotony of this daily routine and the constant pressure of the Rat Line was welcomely relieved by the football season and Opening Hops. Knowing the rule of the Rat Line would be lifted temporarily when the Big Red Team won its first victory, we Rats showed more than the usual enthusiasm at the cheer rallies and games. A win over George Washington did the trick. We were out of the Rat Line for what seemed like an extremely short day. On the following Monday we pulled our chairs back and began counting the days to the next Corps trip. With the passing of the eventful Thanksgiving game and weekend, we could then visualize Christmas fur-lough and being home for the holidays. Every evening march to the mess hall meant another chorus of "Jingle Bells" and another day nearer to when we would leave. On December 2d we held our first "step off" as an anniversary celebration to the Class of 1955's renowned "step off" their Rat year. A lot of steam was let off, but the function was considered mild in comparison with those staged by the members of the "Old Corps." Christmas finally came but our two weeks of civilian life ended all too abruptly.

Upon return we new cadets experienced our first big exams at VMI. The completion of our first semester at the Institute marked the halfway point in our trying first year and gave renewed courage to those of us who had survived. A new term began and a new resurrection followed close on its heels. After three days of vigorous workouts on the stoops, we welcomed gladly the chance to be back in the Rat Line we had gradually become accustomed to.

The days grew longer and warmer, and evidences of spring were appearing everywhere. Once again we packed our bags and went our ways to a brief spring vacation. We were on the last lap now, and we put on white ducks, shakos, and more brass. This meant that Finals were on the way.

Then it came. The Rat Line ended, and we became the Class of 1958. Sitting at ease in the mess hall and getting our mail early were only a few of the privileges that we enjoyed. It slowly dawned on us that our year at VMI had not been spent in vain, and we had to assume the responsibility of upper classmen. School and our Rat year had ended, but our life at VMI had just begun.

The Athletics

VMI has not always had winning teams in the sports field, but no one can say that we have not had the most spirited. By determination and work, our athletes make themselves men that we can be proud of as symbols of what the VMI spirit is. Whether in minor or major sports our athletes have created an enviable record for sportsmanship and spirit.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Athletic Council governs the athletic policies of V. M. I. and is composed of six faculty representatives, and a chairman, three Alumni representatives and three Cadet representatives. This organization is burdened with the task of keeping V. M. I. athletics out of the red, and in good standing in intercollegiate athletics. The council has stressed an interest of the Cadet in intramural athletics, and is giving the so called minor sports, the position that they rightly deserve. The object of the V. M. I. Athletic Council is to promote a well rounded athletic program to the entire Corps of Cadets. Colonel K. S. Purdie, chairman of the committee, and Colonel Echols, Manager of Athletics, have effected many improvements in the Athletic administration, and financing.

PROVD OF HER FAME AND READY IN EVERY TIME OF DEEPEST PERIL TO VINDICATE HER HONOR OR DEFEND HER RIGHTS

COL J. T. L. PRESTON

HERB PATCHIN—Director of Physical Education, and trainer. Herb is one of the best trainers in the business and as any athlete will tell you, "If anybody can fix you, Herb can", and this is more often true than not. Yet the Corps, whether athlete or scholar, all come into contact with Herb and all come to know him as a man to be admired and respected for his ideals and advice, and for his unflinching judgment of personality. VMI teams will always be fortunate to have Herb there on the side lines to take care of their injuries.

BILL ROBERTS—The man to whom we owe our extensive Intramural program. Bill is the organizer, referee, and proponent of good sportsmanship that has produced in so many of our intramural players the quality of a varsity athlete. The wide participation offered to the entire Corps of Cadets in our Intramural program is largely due to the efforts of Bill Roberts.

TOM JOYNES—The man behind the newspaper articles that we read about our athletic teams. Tom is the man saddled with the job of publicizing VMI athletics. He is the man who has to write up the previews and summaries, keep each football, basketball, and all the other sports on the pages of the newspapers, so that we can have more and better boys interested in VMI, and keep our alumni well informed and up to date on what VMI athletics are doing.

THE COACHES

THE FOOTBALL STAFF—Head Coach John McKenna (in circle) finished his second season here this year, gaining even further respect and admiration from the V. M. I. folk. The Lawrence, Mass., native, who was an All-American choice at Villanova, has inherited a thin squad of youngsters but has certainly put the rebuilding program on the upswing. His teams have scored 9 wins against eleven losses in two seasons now, and six of the nine triumphs have been on upsets. Only once has his team lost when it was the favorite.

Clark King (upper left) handles the backfield coaching and also has freshman basketball and helps with the track squad. He's in his third year on the V. M. I. staff, coming here from Camp Lejeune, where he was an assistant coach and a top-notch end with the Marine grid machine. The husky Nebraska native, who played at Nebraska State Teachers College, is the Athletic department's "handy-man," helping out with just about any chores that come up.

Ed Kensler (upper right) is the line coach, and considered one of the brightest young coaching prospects in the business. He came to V. M. I. when neighboring Washington and Lee de-emphasized its football having had three successful seasons there as line mentor. The Illinois native, who was an all-time great linebacker at Maryland, will return to his Alma Mater next season as line coach.

Chuck Noe (lower left) is primarily basketball and baseball coach, but the scrappy little hustler also helps with defensive backfield work and is a top-notch football seant until basketball practice starts in November. He's a valuable asset to any staff, and a strong student of football as well as all sports.

Walt Vannoy (lower right) now handles the line chores vacated by Kensler, having been moved up to the varsity staff. This past season, he coached the Rat squad, a more-than-frustrating job since freshmen were eligible for varsity play. This meant his squad was composed of those who couldn't make the varsity and left him with a serious manpower shortage when it came to meeting the other clubs. He's a former Army quarterback and did most of the punting for the Black Knights in the post-war grid-iron era which they nearly monopolized.

 Third Row: Armstrong, Barker, LeBourdais, Griffith, Foster, Johnson, J., Buzzelli, Dickenson, Brawner, McCabe, Swirk

Charlie Byrd, Co-Captain

BUCK BOXLEY—This year's Co-Captain, as well as one of the fastest and most rugged guards VMH has seen in quite awhile. Buck liked the going rough, and was an excellent team man.

FRANK BOXLEY—A better than average fullback who could always get those extra few yards. Frank was a fast and powerful runner who combined his rough nature and speed to make him an adept defensive man as well as offensive.

CHARLIE BYRD—This year's Co-Captain of the Big Red has alternated from end to tackle, and has been a first string man since he entered the team in '51. Charlie was Co-Captain of the basketball team, and a second lieutenant in the Corps. This 6'5", 215-pounder will definitely be missed for his ruggedness as well as leadership.

RAY COLLINS—An Andover, Massachusetts, boy, who found a home down south. George spent three seasons as a halfback and then was shifted to end where he played his most outstanding ball. He was a better than average pass receiver, and an excellent blocker. George likes it best when it gets rough.

ROYCE JONES—A Hampton, Virginia, product who came to VMI as an end and extra point specialist and was converted to an outstanding quarterback. Royce's kick-offs and extra points will be missed when he takes leave of VMI.

CHIP LAZARUS—Chip came up from Roanoke and dug in to the rugged line play as a small man. In the past four years he has become one of the stand-bys as a rugged and hard-charging guard who played for all he was worth at all times.

JOHNNY MORGAN—Johnny was small for a guard, weighing only 185 lbs. However, he made up for this disadvantage in aggressiveness and desire. An All-State guard in 1954, he also made Southern Conference All-Scholastic Team. John was one of the better blockers on the squad.

NICK SERVIDIO—"Scrap Iron" as his opponents called him—and very justly so, was as rugged a fullback as VMI will see for quite some time. He had plenty of power and used it well on defense and offense. Nick will be remembered as we see No. 33 going through the line time and time again when that yardage was so desperately needed.

DAVE WOOLWINE—A four year varsity man, who was an outstanding defensive player his first year, and soon became a strong contender for the halfback slot. Dave spent his last two years as the Quarterback of the Big Red. He displayed passing, ball handling, and running abilities, along with a head for calling the right plays at the right time.

JIMBO THORNTON—A real hustler and called "The Rock" by his teammates. He was an outstanding defensive player and showed that he was an offensive player as well in the George Washington game this year. He liked that body contact.

MIKE FOLEY—Mike was the little man that never stopped running. How many times did the Corps see him go into a pile of tacklers and come out on the other side still digging? A small man with a fiery nature, and a jovial sense of humor. Mike has shown us all that it doesn't take size to be a good football player.

TROY CARTER—Troy was plagued by injuries during his four years, but when he was in the line-up he was a decided asset. He was a hard runner and a fast man for his size.

Davidson, 1st Game

Johnny Mapp was gone . . . gone but not forgotten. Last year he had been the "fair haired boy" in state football. He had ranked second in the nation in scoring with an overwhelming total of 72 points. There was a general consensus around football circles that VMI would not be able to recover from the loss of Mapp.

On September 18, all eyes were on the 1954 edition of the Big Red when they took the field against Davidson at Wilson Field for the opening game of the season. The favored Keydets were off in a rush with Nick Servidio and Dave Woolwine operating smoothly. Consistently during the first quarter VMI moved inside the Davidson 20 yard line. The tide of battle changed abruptly. The Keydets moved to the Wildcat 3, but a 15 yard penalty was forthcoming on the next play. That was our first and last scoring opportunity.

Davidson then began to roll and the game ended with the visitors leaving the field 19-0 victors. The typical remark that evening was, "They miss Mapp."

George Washington, 2nd Game

The next week end the Corps followed the team to Alexandria for the George Washington game. Virginia Military's Keydets had not been too sharp against Davidson and now they had to prove themselves against a very strong G. W. team.

It did not take long to see this was an evenly matched game . . . one team boasted brawn, the other spirit. Near the end of the first period VMI recovered a fumble in G. W. territory and scored on a beautiful pass play engineered by Woolwine who hit Ray Collins for the score.

By the end of the first half G. W. had tied the score 7-7. The Colonials hit pay dirt first in the second half on a grinding 37 yard march and that closed the door on Colonial scoring for the afternoon. Early in the fourth quarter the Big Red took the ball on their own twenty and moved 80 yards to tie the score at 14-14. This march featured the running of Lavery, Thornton, Servidio and Woolwine with Charlie Lavery taking the 'skin' over for the score.

The rest of the game saw the teams thumping helmets all over the field. As the quarter drew to a close the teams seemed headed for a certain tie. The Colonials had the ball on their own 3 yard line with 2 seconds remaining. Two seconds later the Keydets had won 16-14. The G. W. quarterback had dropped back to pass as the final gun went off. Nearly the entire Keydet line trapped him in the end zone for a safety and in doing so, provided the crowd with a thrill to be remembered. It brought a roaring mass of gray out of the stands to carry the team off the field. The Keydets had proven they could win without Johnny Mapp and did it with a dramatic "team" victory.

Richmond, 3rd Game

In the next game, played in Richmond against U. R., Coach McKenna took the wraps off second string quarterback Royce Jones. The Hampton lad, substituting for the injured Woolwine, turned in a superb performance as VMI measured the highly regarded Spiders 19-6. It was Jones' masterminding and the piston-like legs of Lavery, Vaughn, Foley and Servidio that spelled doom for the home team.

With Johnny Morgan leading the way, the Keydets displayed an air tight defense for the second straight week. While the line was furnishing the "rock wall," Jones engineered all three Keydet touchdown drives. The Spiders, who went into the game leading the nation in defense, saw 233 yards recorded against them. Richmond found the tables were turned on defense . . . they were in danger of being shut-out until the last two minutes of play, when they managed to push over their only score.

The Big Red had two smashing "team" victories in a row under their belts and all eyes turned to New England and Boston College.

Dave scampers the side line against West Virginia

Boston College, 4th Game

The scene of battle was Boston's Fenway Park. The day was cold and dreary and so were the Keydets . . . They faced the Boston College Eagles and lost, 44-0. The Keydets had tasted defeat at the hands of a team that had too much of everything.

From the first kickoff it was Boston College all the way. Their giant line opened gaping holes in the small Virginia team's forward wall, allowing their flashy backs nearly unlimited freedom of the field. The Big Red was "over-matched" but this did not dissolve their fighting spirit. The underdogs drove inside the B. C. 10 yard stripe twice during the afternoon, but were unable to muster the added power to crack the huge wall of flesh that faced them. As proof of the B. C. defense, the Keydets failed to gain an inch via the air and they managed only 99 yards on the ground.

The trip north had been fruitless, but it taught the men of VMI the meaning of manpower, in the raw sense of the word.

University of Virginia, 5th Game

A fine homecoming crowd of 17,000 witnessed the next Keydet game in the University of Virginia's Scott Stadium. The Big Red offense, completely stymied the week before, never really got started and VMI tasted defeat without scoring a point for the second week in a row. The final score read 21-0.

In the final analysis it was the big Wahoo line that brought VMI its third defeat of the season. Time and again it was the booming foot of Bobby Jordan, the Keydet's brilliant punter that kept the Cavaliers away from touchdown's door. Jordan, with his lofty kicks, showed the customers why he was rated one of the nation's leading performers in that department.

Virginia scored twice in the second quarter and then had to wait until the final period to push over an insurance tally. The Big Red, in the meantime, failed to penetrate the Wahoo 35 yard line. The VMI lads played tough, head-up game but the Boston College battering, plus a huge Virginia weight advance, added up to defeat.

West Virginia, 6th Game

On the 25th of October, the Keydets traveled to Blue-field, West Virginia, for the fourth annual Coal Bowl game with the Mountaineers. The Big Red left barracks in high hopes of coming through with a win against the team ranked tenth in the nation, but victory was not forthcoming. The bowl-minded Mountaineers scored two quick touchdowns and then alternated the first, second and third string teams the rest of the way to a 10-6 win.

The game, however, was not as one-sided as the score indicated. VMI had 12 first downs, only three short of the mark set by West Virginia. In fact, most of the Mountaineers scores came on long runs through holes opened by a line that had a 25-pound weight advantage per man. This line was also able to hold off numerous Keydet touch-down drives.

In short, it was another weekend of "too much and too many." Nick Servidio played his usual "crushing" role on defense. Big Nick also picked up 65 yards in 11 tries to lead the Keydets in the ground gaining department.

Florida State University, 7th Game

The Big Red was right back the next week end trying to break their losing streak against Tom Nugent's Florida State team. The Corps was with the Keydets in Lynchburg for this one and the troops were in store for a slam-bang affair that produced passing and pass receiving of a very weird variety.

Twice the Seminole quarterback was trapped behind in his backfield about to be brought down only to get off a desperation pass that found its wobbly mark for a touchdown. The Keydets played a beautiful game, matching the Florida team point for point with a well balanced passing and running game.

Before the Corps had taken their seats on the following kickoff, the Keydets had scored again. This time it came on a pass interception by Center Dick Lyons and a beautiful Woolwine pass to Tom Dooley. Dave again converted and the scoreboard read VMI 14, W&M 0. The rest of the half found the Big Red exhibiting a devastating defense.

The third quarter was played on even terms. The final score of the afternoon came early in the fourth quarter. An unsuccessful fourth down play on the part of W&M gave the Keydets first down on their own 12. Fifteen plays later the Lexington lads had their final TD. This march of 88 yards had featured a pile-driving line, something the team was not supposed to have. The final score read 21-0.

It was a typical team victory for the Keydets and it told the world we had not conceded the Big Six Crown to VPI, not by a long shot.

Citadel, 9th Game

Sporting a 21-0 victory over the W&M Indians, the Keydets were now ready for their tune-up with the Citadel played at Wilson Field in Lexington. A number of weeks before some players on one of the teams VMI had faced had been quoted as saying "The Citadel has a better team than VMI." If only those players could have been

With the score tied 13-13, the Seminoles pulled two "unusual" pass plays in which the ball was handled like a hot potato. Both passes of 55 and 45 yards went for touchdowns. Florida State finally went on to win 33-19, but a look at the statistics will show the game was purely a matter of two lucky passes. The Keydets amassed a total of 18 first downs to State's 8 and they gained 407 yards to State's 312.

Mike Foley, the Keydets' little speedster, was truly the game's outstanding performer. The Hlopewell cadet picked up 129 of Virginia Military's 213 yards gained on the ground.

William & Mary, 8th Game

The Big Red had absorbed four straight defeats; this was the Saturday that would tell the Big Six story as far as VMI was concerned. Should the Keydets beat William and Mary and then go on to take VPI, they would repeat as state champions.

So on this 6th day of November, the VMI cadets were in Roanoke, ready to take on the W&M Indians, a team that had just tied undefeated Hokies. The Keydets lost little time in showing the 12,000 spectators they were still the state champions. An Indian fumble with less than 4 minutes of the game in the books set up the first VMI score. Dave Woolwine and company took the ball 46 yards, with Mike Foley taking it over. Woolwine converted and VMI lead 7-0.

at Wilson Field on the 15th of November. The Big Red did everything this side of a "hat trick" as they swamped the Citadel Bulldogs 42-0.

It was Dave Woolwine's beautiful ball handling and passing, matched with the bone jarring play of the forward wall that overwhelmed the hapless Cadets from South Carolina. It would be impossible to describe here the merits of all those concerned with this victory. The game proved to be the peak of the Big Red's defensive perfection. They limited the Citadel to a total of 52 yards gained while picking up 451 yards of their own!

The VPI tune-up had been successful and now the Corps was waiting for a crack at those Hokies come Thanksgiving.

V. P. I., 10th Game

Thanksgiving Day finally arrived and with it came the State's most spectacular game . . . the annual VMI-VPI classic in Roanoke. The experts had made undefeated Tech heavy favorites and with good reason. They were completing one of the finest seasons in their history.

On the opening play of the game, Mike Foley went off right tackle and romped 70 yards to the Tech 4 yard line. The Gobblers dug in and displayed their vaunted defense by preventing what seemed to be a certain TD. Foley's run, however, had given VMI the initiative and the Red, White and Yellow soon moved in front 2-0 on a safety. The points came when a Tech safety man was trapped behind the goal line trying to return one of Jordan's booming punts.

Tech then began to click and they moved in front 14-2 on a long pass followed by a sustained drive. The Keydets were visibly shaken with anger and they wasted no time in starting their own drive which ended with a short scoring pass, Woolwine to Vaughn. The scoreboard read 14-9 and that closed out the Big Reds' offensive excursions for the afternoon. A few seconds before the half ended, Divers of VPI intercepted a Woolwine pass and raced 42 yards to score. That play was a tip-off to the second half.

Before the crowd had settled in their seats for the third quarter, Tech had scored three times and the game was then all VPI. When the final gun sounded, Tech was victorious 46-9. Superior depth had been the deciding factor. The Keydet first string had played Tech off their feet in the first quarter, but the terrific pace had to take its toll.

A surprising picture can be seen in the statistics. VMI had 14 first downs to Tech's 10 and the difference in total yardage was only 66 yards. It had been a game of long runs and VPI had engineered the majority of them.

So the door closed another season with its ups and its downs; its frustrations and its smiles . . . This season is now a page in a record book, but the spirit lives on.

With the three top scorers from the previous season graduated, the Keydet basketballers this year found themselves at the very embryonic stages of a rebuilding program. Two freshmen, a sophomore, a junior and one lonely first classman provided the starting lineup. It was one of the most youthful squads the Institute ever fielded.

After a slow start, the Keydets began a methodical improvement which finished at the Conference Tournament with a six-point loss in a thriller, bowing to the champions of West Virginia. "Hot-Rod" Hundley and Co., of the Mountaineer State, had beaten the V. M. I. clan twice in the regular season without too much trouble. By tourney time, however, Coach Chuck Noe's lads had matured immeasurably.

Next year's outlook offers the top three scorers from this season returning a year older and a year better.

Top scorers were a pair of Kentucky freshmen, Bobby Williamson and Jim Lowe. Williamson, from Bowling Green, had 280 points for a 12.2 average and Lowe, from the Blue-Grass country of Buechtel, scored 271. It was the first time a Rat ever led the varsity scorers, and to add to it, there were two of them. Williamson also shot from the floor at a 46-per-cent clip, one of the finest in the Conference, and averaged 13.7 rebounds a game.

Senior Frank Walter was the steady influence among the youthful starting five, and averaged a respectable 37 per cent on field goals from his guard position. The scrappy set-shot artist also led the team in free throw percentage, hitting in 82 per cent of his tries.

Co-Captains Charlie Byrd and John McDowell, both handicapped by late starts, provided depth at the forward posts and will be sorely missed in future campaigns. Byrd was late in joining the squad because of football and McDowell was held back with a knee operation.

Reserve center Tom Tait and guard Buzz Snyder also saw their final action with the Big Red. Tait will be graduated and Snyder's eligibility simply runs out.

Returning for next year, besides Williamson and Lowe, will be guard Don Nyman and forward Bill Coupland. Nyman, a playmaker and defensive man supreme (who stole the ball from "Hot-Rod" Hundley twice in the Conference tourney) will be the lone senior in the starting five in '55-'56. Conpland, a third classman this time who didn't become eligible until mid-season averaged 13.5 points for the 11 games he played. He's a top backboard man, too.

Behind this foursome will be several other promising prospects who were just freshmen and sophomores this season.

This year's story was the same week after week. The team looked very good in its first-half play against everybody it met, but faltered in the final quarters, usually howing to superior depth from the opposition. After wearing out our starting five, the foes then inserted fresh teams of good shooters to run away from us. The depth problem should be somewhat cured next season with so many returnees on hand but there will still be a shortage of experienced hands behind the first five.

In order, Richmond, Virginia, Tennessee, West Virginia, Davidson, William and Mary and Virginia Tech took fourth-quarter decisions from the young Keydets. The only teams we beat in the fourth quarter were Davidson and Hampden-Sydney once apiece. The rest of the victories were one-sided in our favor.

A berth in the Southern Conference Tournament looked doubtful for most of the season, but the rapidly-improving Keydets finished strong to edge V. P. I. for eighth place. It started with a two-point win over Tech, followed by victories over The Citadel and Davidson to lock up the tournament spot.

It was the first time ever for a Southern Conference Basketball tournament in Richmond, and the City's new Arena was jam-packed for every session. The Keydets, being eighth in the league, had the dubious distinction of opening tourney play by meeting West Virginia, winners of regular-season first place. After disposing of V. M. I., the Mountaineers went on to take the tournament over favored George Washington. They had almost as much trouble with the Keydets as they did the Colonials, however, with the scrappy V. M. I. men pulling to within two points with less than two minutes to go. A height superiority which gave West Virginia the final few crucial rebounds was the difference, but eyebrows were raised and the rest of the Conference took note of a lot of youthful V. M. I. scrappers who'll be around for several seasons.

Although the 1954-55 wrestling team was not able to compile a record equal to the excellent one of the previous year, the team made a good showing, whether in victory or defeat. Ending the season with a record of six wins and seven losses in dual meets, the team faced stiff competition, including such powerhouses as Army, VPI, and Maryland, throughout the whole season.

In spite of the loss of several of his top wrestlers from last year, including two Southern Conference champions, coach Oscar Guppton was able to mold a competent team which improved steadily during the season. It was chiefly through Guppton's knowledge of the sport and his skill in teaching it that the wrestlers were able to give their overall excellent performances.

The grapplers got off to a good start with wins over Marshall and Davidson in a two-day quadrangular meet. After these early season wins, the team, facing some of the toughest competition on the eastern seaboard, suffered a series of five defeats. However, the team was able to rebound and win four of the last five matches, including an exciting and close match with the University of Virginia.

In the annual Southern Conference tournament V. M. I. ended up third behind V. P. I. and West Virginia. Outstanding in the tournament was Stu Jones who won the conference championship in the 147 lb. class. Following closely behind Jones were Jimbo Thornton and the Massie brothers, Tom and Jim, all of whom won second places in their respective weights. Nick Servidio, Kirk Hubbard, and Bill

Ray Mackay

Tom Massie

Stuart Jones

Nick Servidio

Grabher were able to take third place honors, and Ray Mackay ended up fourth in the 123 lb. class. Servidio, who was the Conference champion in the heavy weight division last season, and was the captain of the team this year, was hampered in the tournament by an injured shoulder.

During the season Stu Jones and Tom Massie always turned in top-notch wrestling, and were constant winners. Jim Massie made a name for himself by his fighting spirit and determination to win. Jimbo Thornton, often wrestling far out of his own weight class showed the same type of spirit. Bill Grabher, greatly improved from last year, wrestled well in all of his matches. Nick Servidio, although having several bad breaks during the season, scored many wins and most of these by pins.

Although several of the team's best wrestlers are graduating this year, there are ready replacements for them. Coach Gupton is looking forward to next year with optimism. He will have six returning lettermen to form a nucleus for the team, and he will have the able leadership, as well as the wrestling skill of next year's co-captains—Stu Jones and Tom Massie.

On October 12, 1954, Coach William Campbell and over forty eager swimmers assembled at the pool below the Jackson Memorial Hall. There was the familiar command of "ready, go!", the first splash of the year, and the swimming season became an actual thing. It was again one of the most important components of the lives of those men. For another season swimming was to be their governor. Four months and 153,000 yards later those efforts and hours had paid off. An impressive mark of nine wins in eleven starts had been recorded. And again the team was resting in the position of Southern Conference and Big Six champions.

The success of the season was based largely upon the performances of Co-Captains Frank Boley and Reg Ridgeley and juniors Dick Hoyt, Jack Stanley and Bill Van Fossen. Frank was the mainspring of the sprints and the relay while Reg turned in 54 points as an undefeated diver for the 2nd year. Four V. M. I. records fell before the onslaught of the second class. Dick Hoyt set new marks in the individual medley and two hundred yard back-stroke events and was a third of the record-setting medley relay team along with Jack Stanley and Tony Waring. Bill Van Fossen set the four hundred forty yard freestyle mark against Pennsylvania with the greatest individual endeavor of the year. Additional credit is due backstrokers Skip Thompson, Jim Hart and Joe Spivey and breaststrokers Gene Johnson, Bob Wagner, Carl Schladitz, John Michelson, and Bob Cofer. Completing the freestyle agenda are Jack Moss, Bill Alexander, Frank Hammond and Dave Johnson in the distance events and Alan Jackson, Bill Haas and John Bell in the sprints. Bill Lamb and Jack

The season's opener against Catholic U. gave indications of a successful campaign. However, the 63-21 score was not to be representative of the next two weeks. The competition grew stiffer. Campbell and charges were to match times with the University of Pennsylvania and Bainbridge Naval Unit in two consecutive days. Stalwart Pennsylvania fell before the Keydets 40-44. The next day proved too much as Bainbridge came out on the better side of that same score 40-44. Easy victories over William and Mary and West Virginia University placed the team back in stride and provided time to gather resources for the Pittsburgh meet. Again though, top material and the long trip were too much. The Keydets lost by 25-57. But that defeat terminated the short end scores. Smashing, bench-cleaning wins over V. P. I.,

Skip Thompson

East Carolina and arch rivals the University of Virginia marked the end of the regular season.

The Big Six crown was retained by the V. M. I. team and the next week the Southern Conference championship was successfully defended. The story of the entire season is illustrated by the Southern Conference win. V. M. I.'s 169 points bettered second place V. P. I.'s by an even 100 points. Van Fossen and Hoyt scored triple wins and the latter was chosen by the coaches as the most valuable swimmer in the Conference.

It will be a mighty team that equals the statistical and spiritual standard set by this, the one of 1955. It will have to be one which possesses a great unity and faith between coach and swimmer. And it will instill in those men, as did this one, a powerful experience, lesson and adventure.

This year's track team was led by co-captains Ben Angle and Willie Green and coached ably by Major Walter Cormack. The record made by Ben Angle will serve as an inspiration to V. M. I. trackmen for many years to come. He holds the championship in the Southern Conference and state half and quarter mile, indoors, and the Southern Conference and Big Six mile and half mile, outdoors. His records include the State AAU half and quarter mile, outdoors, the State half and quarter mile, indoors, and the all time V. M. I. half mile. The versatility of Willie Green, who was the co-captain in charge of the field men, was matched only by his enthusiasm. During his track career at V. M. I. he pole vaulted, threw the javelin, and ran the sprints and hurdles. Willie was always on hand to see that his field men, especially the Rats, were getting their workout.

To Coach Walt Cormack, however, goes the credit for the fine showings that V. M. I. cinder teams have made in the past several years. His teams have won the State, Big Six, and Southern Conference crowns in indoor and outdoor track as well as cross country. He has coached such stars as Johnny Mapp, who placed in the Nationals for two consecutive years. His teams have beaten such powers as Navy, Georgia Tech, Alabama, and Florida State for two years in the ACC non-conference indoor games. The track team and V. M. I. owe Coach Cormack a vote of thanks for the outstanding job he has done with the resources at his disposal.

1954 CROSS COUNTRY

The cross country team of V. M. I. lived up to its usual high standards, coming through the 1954 season with a fine record. The Harriers managed to finish the season undefeated in regular meets and with the Big Six and Southern Conference crowns. This year's cross country team, although runners like Angle and Pitkethly put in some fine showings, was not a team of individual stars but one of tremendous depth. In some meets the whole V. M. I. team crossed the finish line before the first of their opponents.

The season opened on October 2, with a meet against Richmond in which the Keydets won 15-53.

15 is the lowest possible score. The month of October saw wins over William & Mary, 16-51, V. P. I., 15-52, West Virginia, 24-36, and Virginia, 15-55. A triangular meet with Davidson and Washington and Lee ended with V. M. I. the victor, 20-44, and 19-45. The regular season ended with a second defeat of V. P. I., 17-49.

Finding the competition in this part of the country sadly lacking the Harriers of V. M. I. journeyed to East Lansing, Michigan, for the NCAA meet. Here the Keydet team finished 16th against a field made up of the strongest cross country powers in our nation.

OUTDOOR TRACK

The 1954-55 track season saw V. M. I. once again fielding very strong teams both indoors and outdoors. As in the case of football the track team felt very strongly the loss of All-American Johnny Mapp. Despite this loss the thinclads surprised most people by coming up with a team possibly even better than last year's.

The indoor season began with the Keydets defeating Roanoke College by a score of 61-43. On February 5, V. M. I. held its annual Winter Relays, which, through the hard work of Coach Walt Cormack, became one of the highlights of the indoor season in this part of the country. Although the team retained the Big Six and Southern Conference championships, the sweetest victory came in the A. C. C. meet in Chapel Hill, N. C. Here V. M. I. defeated a group of the major schools in the southeast in the non-conference division. For the second year the trackmen edged out Navy by less than two points.

On the track team this year are found not only individual stars but a reassuring amount of depth.

Billy Green over the bar

Carter Valentine takes a hurdle

There are such stalwarts as Ben Angle, the finest middle distance runner V. M. I. or the east has seen in a long while and who has run every race from the 220 yard dash to the two mile run and won most of them; Troy Carter, who is expected to reach over 50 feet in the shot put before the end of the season; and Dale Vaughn, a broad jumper who can jump over 24 feet. The field events are rounded out by Willie Green who pole vaults, throws the javelin and even runs the hurdles on occasion, Charlie Byrd tossing the discus, and John Machen high jumping. Carter Valentine looks as if he will dominate the Southern Conference in the high and low hurdles this season and two second classmen, Hopkins and Wilson are the Keydets' dash men. As for the long distances the running of Jerry Bourke and Jimmy Jean is the team's hope for points in that department. To round out the squad Van Sessoms, Bill Higginbotham, Pete McCrary, and Jim Lowe run middle distance, while "Spike" Dillard, Jerry Harden, "Tiger" Jackson, Dave Pitkethly, and Bob Savage are found in the long distances. There are also a great number of underclassmen in the sprints and field events.

The Keydet track team with its fine individual performances and experience supplied by the first classmen and its depth and promise supplied by its large number of underclassmen got off to its usual good start with an undefeated indoor season. The outdoor season as well, shows that once again Walt Cormack has fielded a first rate team.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The 1955 version of the V. M. I. baseball team proved to be a capable group of hustlers as the Keydets started their season with four successive wins. Dave Woolwine captained the team this year, and the Abingdon native was out to bring his team above last year's record of 12-6, and cop the Big Six and Southern Conference championships. Coach Chuck Noe, hailed as one of the finest young coaches in the state, found himself with a team well seated in depth, with seven returning lettermen. The team had little rebuilding to do, and a solid wall was immediately established in the outfield, with Buzz Snyder, Bob Beale, and Jack Witt. A couple of strong armed young men, Cliff Heathcote, up from the rat team and boasting a .371 average, and Sam Woolwine, an iron armed right fielder, and brother of the captain, backed these three up. The infield was one that any coach would give his eye teeth for — Gordon Crockett on first base, with Tootie Sherry and Dave Woolwine in the keystone, and Fred Willard holding down third base. All these men posted .300 plus batting averages during the 1954 season. The mound corps composed of Leftie Jim Foster, and right handers Pete Perrin, Ralph Frye, Dusty Rhodes, and Cliff Heathcote, proved to be capable chuckers during the first four games. They found sufficient battery mates in George Manus and Chuck McClellan who shared the catching duties.

This year the team was well prepared for opening day. With twenty-one members of the squad making a trip during spring furlough to play various service teams, the team was well along the road to be a unit when the first game came around. Coach Noe and Coach Saunders are working hard to pull out the kinks and to produce a team that will stand high in the Southern Conference and Big Six competition.

GOLF

The V. M. I. golf team provided many thrills toward the end of the season after a slow start. Fielding a young and inexperienced team, they dropped their first several matches, but then the boys settled down and began to play the golf that was expected of them.

A good time and some interesting moments were had by the team at the Southern Conference Tournament in Hot Springs, in spite of a rugged course. They visited the scenic Greenbrier layout and also the courses at Farmington and Danville.

The team that played in most of the matches was composed of 4 sophomores, 2 seniors, 2 freshmen and a junior. First classman Monty White played number one most all year and turned in several medal scores. Captain Ken Carstens played number two. Two third classmen played three and four. Dong Talbot and Phil Peters gave their opponents many interesting matches. Jim Webber and Bo Spragans, two fourth classmen, played some excellent golf and won many matches. The top six was backed up by such men as Johnny St. George, George Brower and Ben Wiggins, who all played good golf and won several matches.

With all but Carstens and White returning the prospects for next year are bright and the team should provide a winning combination.

TENNIS

V. M. I.'s tennis team led by Co-Captains Frank Pilley and Skip Thompson, and directed by Coach Clark appears to be well balanced in the early stages of the season and is looking forward to a successful campaign for the 1955 season.

Although the team feels the loss of last year's Co-Captains Jim Berry and Don Drennan, and has been handicapped by a shortage of tennis courts, the improvement of returning lettermen and the addition of several promising rats makes the picture much brighter.

The Keydets have won two matches after dropping three and they expect to continue setting a hot pace against their state rivals: V. P. I., Virginia, William and Mary, Richmond, and Lynchburg, and their out of state foes Maryland and George Washington. The team is looking for a high position in the Southern Conference tournament.

Ted Peters is currently holding down the number one position, followed by veteran Frank Pilley, Bill Stokes, Stirling Williamson, Creed Abell, and Bill Enrick; however, depth and balance in the top ten players shows a possibility of change in the ladder as the season progresses.

The team has proven more successful in singles competition than in doubles thus far, but the balance needed for a winning team is showing itself more and more. The new V. M. I. courts, now under construction, will be a valuable asset to next year's team which will be seeded with a substantial number of returning racket-wielders.

The V. M. I. fencing team coached by team captain Basil RuDusky, and Jose Chioco is at the height of its performance this season. In its first three matches, V. M. I. has defeated the Augusta Military Academy by a score of 22 1 2 to 4 1 2; defeated North Carolina State by a score of 21 1 2 to 5 1 2; and won its big meet with George Washington University by a score of 22 to 5.

The grace, speed and dexterity of the flashing blades of this year's team will long be remembered by everyone. Graduating this year will be team captain Basil RuDusky, and Jim Skinner. The nucleus of next year's team will be Jose Chioco, V. M. I.'s foil star, and Chuck Jundt.

VARSITY RIFLE TEAM

The Varsity rifle team had another outstanding year at the Institute, and although they will lose many of their best marksmen with this year's retiring first class, they should be strong in the coming years with a crop of rats to build on. Barney Lawless, Dave Campbell, Hans Leipold, Tom Barrett, Mich Pettyjohn, Bill Greig, and Bob Bowden will leave the team this year and the strength which they provided by their deadly marksmanship against the best teams in the country during the past four years, will undoubtedly be missed in the future.

The Activities

ACTIVITIES—whether it means a dance, a club or a publication, VMI has not lacked men who are active in extra-curricular activities. Despite the fact that we have to use our free time for them, the cadet activities at VMI have those men who participate and work unselfishly, in the interest of their fellow cadets.

GLEE CLUB

One of our better known organizations at V. M. I. is the Glee Club. Led and directed by Colonel H. N. Dillard, the Glee Club has presented performances that were beyond comparison. This year our Glee Club was honored to present a concert for the President of the United States.

HOP COMMITTEE

The Hop Committee is the organization responsible for the beautiful dances and fine bands that we have enjoyed at V. M. I. in the past year. Advised by Lt. Colonel C. C. Tutwiler and led by Bill Fulgham, Reg Ridgeley, Marty Bregman, and Jim Hart, the Hop Committee has done an outstanding job in the past year.

The

THE hops are the high point in the social activity at VMI, and the peak of the hops is reached in the Ring Figure of the second class year. In the color and activity of this week end a cadet gains memories that he will never forget. Opening Hops, Homecoming, and Midwinters provide the fall and winter with a variety of entertainment, and the spring brings Easters, one of the most enjoyable of the hops. It is Finals that gives memories that last through the summer away from VMI, and its parties, picnics, and parades are a fitting climax to a long year at the Institute.

Salute! . . . to the memory

*whose untimely end grieves friends and fellow members
OF THE CORPS*

*This tribute springs from affection for a valued friend;
and deep seated admiration for the VMI tradition, of which he was a part.*

*The Institute has for generations loomed large in the respect of both his family and ours;
all of us venerate VMI and the principles for which it stands.*

"Scotty" was a great-grandson of General Scott Shipp who commanded the VMI Cadet Battalion at the Battle of New Market and was the Institute's second Superintendent.

He served his country with the Marine Corps in Korea and would have been graduated with the Class of '55.

Scotty's untimely passing is an irreparable loss to all who knew him.

Is it true what we say about...

DIXIE?

"LOOK AHEAD—LOOK SOUTH" to find America's great new industrial opportunity-land. That's what we say about Dixie—over and over again, year after year, in dramatic full-page advertisements in leading national business magazines and in financial publications. Is it true?...

The record speaks for itself. Last year, for example, new industrial developments in the territory we serve created more than 15,000 new job opportunities for men and women in the South. In the past ten years, the number of new plants, new and large distributing warehouses and major plant enlargements occurring along the Southern Railway System totaled 3,584.

Yes, it is true what we say about Dixie. And the years ahead hold the bright promise of still greater progress and growth. That's why we'll go right on saying, "Look Ahead—Look South!"

DUTTON LIKES TO PUBLISH ADVENTURE BOOKS

DUTTON likes to publish adventure books; books in which men tell how they conquered hardship and danger to achieve hitherto unscaled heights, unplumbed depths, forbidden cities, trackless wastes of land and sea; books such as the ones listed below.

We are always looking for more books about outstanding adventures such as these, but all manuscripts, whether about adventure or otherwise, will be given careful consideration.

1953 ANNAPURNA by Maurice Herzog

With color and monochrome gravure illustrations. A classic account of the heroic ascent of the 26,493-foot Himalayan peak—the first mountain of such altitude ever climbed by man. "The most beautiful chapter in mountaineering literature that I know."—Justice William O. Douglas, N. Y. Times Book Review. — $5.00

1954 THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST by Sir John Hunt

With a chapter on the final assault by Sir Edmund Hillary. Eight pages of photographs in full color, 48 pages in monochrome, sketches, maps. "This book is a classic. It will lift the hearts of men as long as there are mountains."—Justice William O. Douglas, N. Y. Herald Tribune Book Review. — $6.00

1954 SEVEN YEARS IN TIBET by Heinrich Harrer

With 40 pages of magnificent photographs. The extraordinary story of the prisoner who escaped into Tibet, penetrated the Forbidden City of Lhasa and became tutor to the Dalai Lama. "One of the greatest true adventure stories lived and written in our time."—Sterling North, N. Y. World Telegram & Sun. — $5.00

1955 2000 FATHOMS DOWN by Georges Houot and Pierre Willm

With 16 photographs. How these two French Navy men carried out their epoch-making descent by bathyscaphe to the 13,287 foot deep ocean floor off Dakar. Coming August 18. — $3.75

1955 THE GODS WERE KIND: The Voyage of the Seven Little Sisters by William Willis

Illustrated with photographs. The stirring account of the lonely voyage by a 61-year-old man who sailed 6,400 miles on a raft from Peru to Samoa, accompanied only by a cat and a parrot. To be published in the fall of '55.
